BS/MD services

Otherwise known as a “direct medical program”, pursuit of a BS/MD is an ambitious challenge. This is the right option for high-achieving students who are truly dedicated to medicine and are able to prove it. Getting into medical school is the main stressor for pre-med students—acceptance to a BS/MD program is highly selective, but admission saves your student four years of stress and a significant amount of money. It guarantees placement in medical school four years ahead of the countless others who will be fighting for their own spot.

BS/MD programs boast notoriously low acceptance rates, but with the help of Uncommon App, admission into this arduous dual degree program is achievable. Elena will guide your student appropriately into showcasing their excitement and confidence about pursuing medicine.

INTERNATIONAL

Are you thinking of pursuing a degree abroad? We're prepared to help you succeed internationally! Education systems, admissions, and student life vary enormously across cultural lines. If you're interested in an international degree, your commitment to your program is crucial. You should not expect the flexibility afforded to you on a U.S. campus. Because of this, defining and identifying your interests is of utmost importance. Uncommon App is uncommonly prepared to help you do just that.

GRAD services

Uncommon App is uniquely positioned to offer comprehensive guidance on graduate school admission. Elena has two decades of experience counseling students in a university careers center—her sensitivity and familiarity with guiding young people onto new journeys in employment and academics is a throughline in her work as a consultant. So, what does it really take to find the graduate program meant for you? At Uncommon App, we'll help you dig through the pros, cons, highs, lows, and grey areas. When thinking about grad school, it's important to be aware of the not-so-good reasons you may want to explore an extra degree. For instance, simply wanting a higher salary, feeling concerned about future employment, and harboring a “now or never” mentality are the top excuses many students use when convincing themselves they should
